

Posted: Dec 19, 2008 - 09:52:33 PST

Archived Story

Friendly food fight

City of Lincoln City employees donated 4,100 pounds of non-perishable food during a friendly two-week competition among departments that ended Dec. 12. The planning department - including, from left, Richard Townsend, Sheri Corgill, Tim Novak, Kate Daschel, and Sam Segundo - was the overall winner with a total of 567.83 pounds of food, or 75.71 pounds per person.

City of Lincoln City employees donated 4,100 pounds of non-perishable food during a friendly two-week competition among departments that ended Dec. 12. The planning department - including, from left, Richard Townsend, Sheri Corgill, Tim Novak, Kate Daschel, and Sam Segundo - was the overall winner with a total of 567.83 pounds of food, or 75.71 pounds per person. The food is being donated to the Lincoln City Food Pantry, Episcopal Parish of St. James Meal Program, and the Backpack Program for Kids. (Courtesy photo by Gail Kimberling)